“ My best memories of Cliff come from the special Fridays during our Green Bay college days we spent at the bar. We referred to the gathering as Corby's Last Class. These visits began in the late 60's. On these Friday's a number of us would meet at Cliff's and spend the rest of the day there ...beers were $.15 each but Cliff made us a special deal of 7 for a buck! Boiled eggs, bar dice and BS'ing consumed the day. I think he enjoyed us being there as much as we did. Lots of laughs and fun with him. After we got out of school in 1970, we continued to meet for a number of years at Corby's after playing basketball or softball in the Green Bay Rec Dept leagues. On occasion Gerry would fill in for him if he was busy away from the bar. But having Cliff there was always special for all of us. He determined I needed eye glasses after he discovered I was unable to read his lighted menu at the end of the bar! Cliff really laughed when that happened. He was truly a great guy and a joy to be around. Rest in peace my friend... you will be missed!
