“ I went to law school with Karl in the late 70's. Since both our last names begin with 'D', we were seated near each other. Karl was a good student who was always well-prepared. While I didn't know him well, he was always cordial and pleasant. My condolences to his family on this loss.

“ I was a classmate of Karl's at Marquette Law School. This is what I remember about Karl: no matter what the weather, rain or shine, snow or sleet, hot or cold, Karl always wore a leather jacket. And he rocked that leather jacket! He was the Slovenian James Dean. Fashions come and go, but style is forever, and Karl had style. Karl was a great guy, and a great attorney and he will be missed.
