

Sadie Delwiche

September 29, 1913 - December 30, 2008

Sadie Marie Delwiche, formerly of Green Bay, 95, died Tuesday, December 30, 2008 at the Capitol Lakes Terraces Center in Madison. She was born September 29, 1913, in the Town of Burke, to Nels and Emma (Reindahl) Stolen. She graduated from Madison East High School and from the University of Wisconsin in 1935 with a degree in dietetics. She worked as a hospital dietitian at hospitals in Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Madison. She married Richard Delwiche on October 17, 1941. Theirs was a marriage of love, devotion and respect. For most of their married life, they lived in Green Bay. Richard died on January 1, 1998. She and Richard raised five children in Green Bay in a home filled with love, support, and the fragrance of superb home cooking. As a mother, she was always available to her children. Her advice was frequently sought and always appreciated. She was an accomplished homemaker, cook, seamstress and a trusted counselor to her wide circle of family and friends. She was a longtime and active member of the Catholic Women's Club. She loved music and was a member of the McDowell Club of Green Bay and of many other community and church organizations. In later years, she and Richard volunteered at Heritage Hill State Park and Sadie was well known for her portrayal of "Auntie Cotton." She and Richard were longstanding members of St. Matthew Catholic Church in Allouez and were both active in many church activities and services. Sadie was a devout Christian, and put to work the Christian principles of love, charity and forgiveness. She was quietly involved in feeding poor families, making quilts and clothing for the sick and the indigent, and cheering the lives of children. In her 50s, she returned to college to take the necessary courses to be certified as an elementary school teacher. For several years she taught at St. Matthew School. As a teacher, she was both loved and respected by her students and their families. She was the ideal grandmother to 14 grandchildren, always treating them as unique individuals. She never forgot a birthday, often making gifts by hand –gifts that her grandchildren will always treasure. She never bragged but was quietly proud of the accomplishments of her children and grandchildren. She is survived by her children, Susan (Donald) Jauquet of Green Bay, Peter (Ann) Delwiche of La Crescent, Minnesota, Jane Considine of Portage, Wisconsin, Barbara (Bill) Feeney of Brooklyn, Wisconsin, and Patricia (Steve Antonius) Delwiche of DeKalb, Illinois. She is also survived by 14 grandchildren, Michael Jauquet, Mary (Peter) Fahndrich, Andrew (Beth) Jauquet, Siri (Joseph) Carpenter, Luke Delwiche, Ellen Considine, Katy Considine, Ana Considine, Suzanna Considine, Jesse Kipp, Dana Kipp, Benjamin Antonius, Joseph Antonius, Laura Antonius, and two great-granddaughters, Grace and Alia Carpenter. She is also survived by two brothers, Ingman (Margaret) Stolen of Madison, and Sidney Stolen of Edgerton, and by a sister-in-law, Mildred, of Wausau. She is also survived by many nieces and nephews, many of whom had a close relationship with their Aunt Sadie. In addition to her husband Richard, she was preceded in death by an infant son, Thomas, by sisters and brothers Siri Anderson, Theresa Olsen, Eleanor Jones, Dean Stolen and Andreas Stolen, and by numerous brothers- and sisters-in law.
