“ Will was my great grandfather. I had the opportunity to see him a few times throughout my life. My mom always told us stories about him as a grandfather and how he gave her a super cool record player when he was in town for work when she was little. He was a good guy and will be missed.

“ Grandpa Will was a gentle giant with a big personality that filled the room. One of my most cherished memories was when he visited us in Colorado when I was about 7. He bought me my very first record player. I loved that thing, it actually lit up like a disco and played real vinyl records. I have great memories of visiting Fox Lake. He always had a big smile and loved joking around. I’m grateful he got to meet his great granddaughter and great grandson. He also got to meet the love of my life, Anthony, a couple years ago. He will be missed, but I’m glad he is not in pain any longer. Thank you for being loyal and supportive with the kids, grandkids and great grandkids throughout your life. You were Grandmas rock and it’s so amazing you’ve had each other in marriage for 52 years and some beyond that. Rest in peace, I love you XO

“ Will and Barb have been a part of our lives since before we were married 43 1/2 years ago. There are so many memories we could share but our favorites were when we would go cross country skiing on Fox Lake, snowmobiling or ice skating. Will was always a good sport and would help out at the drop of a hat. He knew his cars and he had strong opinions on the important topics. Will and Barb were a team and made us feel welcomed always. We are so glad we could see them again in October of 2023. We moved to Washington State, and they were in their new house in Green Bay. It was like no time had gone by. Although we have kept in touch over the years, there is nothing like being with them again. Will has been a very special part of our life. We are so thankful for knowing him and making memories with him and Barb. We love you Will. We will carry our memories with us until we all meet again. With Love, The Baers

We are so saddened to hear of Uncle Will's passing. So many good memories over the years. You both always earned the top spot of first Christmas card which always started off the Christmas season in a special way. While we did not see you as much as we would have liked you both hold a special place in our hearts. May all the memories and love shared bring comfort and peace in the days ahead. Much love being sent your way, Leo and Susan Rizzo

I remember when we first met, Will listened intently when we talked. There aren't many one meets that have an impact on us but Will was one of them! He was a man of his word and honorable. I could only have wished for more time for a few more memories. I'm truly saddened by his passing and for those that will never have the opportunity to know him!
